Tha can allus tel Yorkshire folk, but tha can't tell them much...

AWARDS FOR PHOTOGRAPHIC MERIT UPDATE FROM DAPHNE HANSON, APM SECRETARY

APRIL 2019 ADJUDICATION – RHOS ON SEA

The Credit section is now full for this event but there are a few spaces left in the Distinction & Master categories. It will be a case of “first come, first served”. At the moment there are only 4 MPAGB Print applications and at least one more entrant is required for this section to run. The Adjudication will be hosted by the North Wales Photographic Association over the weekend of 27th/28th April 2019 at Llandrillo College, Rhos on Sea, Colwyn Bay LL28 4HZ.

MAY 2019 AUDIO VISUAL ADJUDICATION – WILMSLOW

We hope to hold another APM/AV Adjudication at The Wilmslow Guild, 1 Bourne Street, Wilmslow SK9 5HD on 18th and/or 19th May 2019, with another Advisory Workshop, probably on Friday 17th May 2019. So far I have received six applications and the event will run on the Saturday at least. To enable a decision on running a second day, at least 6 further entries must be received before the end of January 2019.

NOVEMBER 2019 ADJUDICATION – WATFORD

The Credit section is already a third full, but there is plenty of space in the Distinction & Master categories. Spaces however fill very fast and entrants need to apply sooner, rather than later, to avoid disappointment!

THE PHOTOGRAPHIC ALLIANCE OF GREAT BRITAIN

“A Word to the Wise” - The Rational of Distinctions.

With my third article I would like to look at an issue that frequently leads to misunderstanding and, sometimes, conflict between exhibitors, salons and those offering patronage, etc. In this article I will keep to issues relating to FIAP rather than any of the other major sponsors.

The first thing to understand is that FIAP do not see their distinctions as a right, more as a reward and a privilege. The underlying motivation for FIAP in providing the distinctions programme is to encourage entries into salons with FIAP Patronage and to maintain and/or drive up the standards in those events.

Many salon organisers appear to see it differently. They see FIAP Patronage as a necessity in attracting entrants, but then they seek to structure their own event to make it more attractive to exhibitors seeking FIAP Distinctions. Often by devising what are effectively ‘short cuts’ to those distinctions. The first, and one of the most successful, was the the Austrian Super Circuit, which could enable an exhibitor to achieve many of the criteria by one entry to that event. To preserve the integrity of their distinctions FIAP introduced rules to limit the number of salons and sections in a circuit. To encourage entries Worldwide they also brought out requirements that exhibitors gain their results from a minimum number of countries and Salons.

FIAP also sought to give support to Print Salons, which are seen to be at a big disadvantage as opposed to PDI events, by introducing requirements for print acceptances for AFIAP and EFIAP. This led to the next bright idea, which came from the UK, with the Great British Small Prints Circuit. This provided a cheaper way to enter prints (A4 only) and capitalised on the UK situation, where Wales and Scotland are independent countries within FIAP, to enable results from multiple countries to be gained from one entry. This was quickly picked up elsewhere in the World, and, with the lower running costs of PDI events, organisers really set out to exploit this ‘loop hole’ as FIAP might describe it. Multi-country circuits were soon organised, sometimes with little more than a lap top on a kitchen table.

To try and deal with this situation FIAP brought in rules to –

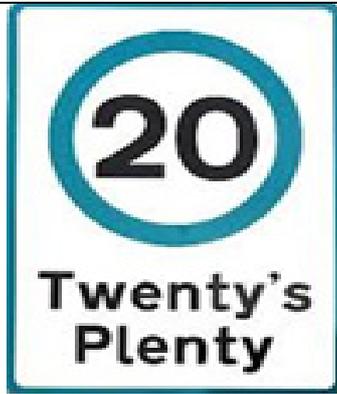

- a) ensure certain minimum standards in the running of circuits and their constituent salons.
- b) limit the advantages circuits offered in ‘short cuts’ to distinctions. Whilst all acceptances from circuits could count, FIAP restricted the advantages in relation to print acceptances and the accumulation of awards.

I have no doubt FIAP would like to do more to maintain the prestige of their distinctions, but their hands are often tied by their own member - the nearly 100 national federations who are its members. Until about 10 years ago, 5 years had to elapse between one’s first acceptance and gaining AFIAP; then a further 3 years before EFIAP could be applied for. FIAP gave in to pressure from many member countries to remove these restrictions and the result was that, together with the digital revolution, the number of salons ballooned from about 100 to over 500, with some salon organisers apparently more interested in financial gain than supporting photography for itself.

FIAP tried to introduce some control by limiting how many acceptances could count from any one country (the 15% rule), but the membership of FIAP rebelled and forced them to remove what could have been a beneficial restriction.

It is true that FIAP do not always get it right, as was apparent with some of the confusion around changes made in 2014 and 2015, but the intention is always in the overall interests of salons worldwide, as well as the credibility of their distinctions. What FIAP have little sympathy with are issues raised largely from those exhibitors who see entering salons solely as a means of “gong chasing”, rather than the actual enjoyment and satisfaction of entering international salons for the sake of photography.

Dave Coates ARPS ESFIAP EFIAP/p APSA EPSA MPAGB APAGB FIAP Liaison Officer (PAGB)

Awards for Photographic Merit ... or is it?

To achieve a coveted PAGB Award for Photographic Merit you need to enter the required number of photos at the level you are aiming for and submit them to 6 expert Adjudicators scoring (voting) between 2 and 5.

2 is a NO Vote

3 is a VERY NEAR MISS

4 is a YES Vote

5 is good enough for the next level

For CPAGB and DPAGB the Distinction is awarded for an average of 20 per photograph but you can see that this equates to only TWO Adjudicators voting YES (4) and FOUR voting NEAR MISS (3). In effect 4 of them were not totally convinced.

The PAGB is perfectly satisfied at this level but, when putting your application together, you should be aiming for all SIX Adjudicators to vote YES, for a total of 24, and that's how mentors should be advising you.

For the MPAGB an average of 22½ is required, across 20 photographs so you can see how difficult this is and how great an achievement it is.

The article above was first published in e-news 178 in Jan 2017 but now is perhaps an opportune time to go a little further.

There has been some discussion on social media about the chances of high scores, say 26, doing well at the next level. I usually point out that even a score of 26, $4+4+4+4+5+5$, means that only two Adjudicators thought that it was good enough at the next level.

Dave Coates has pointed out that other combinations are possible where 3 or 4 Adjudicators might have thought it good enough for the next level, say $5+5+5+5+3+3$ or $5+5+5+4+4+3$ but in these cases, which are very unusual, at least one Adjudicator didn't even think it was good enough for the current level.

William Allen added that "Adjudicators judging C are almost certainly less likely to vote 5 than they would be to hit 4 on a D panel. This applies to educators marking exams and essays etc. It's human nature". This is a valid point. It is difficult for Adjudicators wearing (say) their CPAGB hats to always be thinking if this is good enough for DPAGB. However, they do try very hard and they always Vote lots of 5s.

Despite these arguments, it would still be unwise to put too much confidence in a score of 25 or 26 achieving a good score at the next level. It might get 20, but you should be aiming for 24!

“Ode to an A” by Laurie Campbell AIPF

“Tiger” by Laurie Campbell AIPF

It's a long way to Tipperary, that I do know
For to the town of Thurles I did go
Hoping those IPF judges they wouldn't say No
Or I'd be drowning my sorrows in Pinot Grigio
From Cork and Kerry, and County Clare
There wasn't a county not represented there
From Belfast and Bangor, they travelled that day
To hear what those IPF judges had to say
A year in the making, this panel I'm baking
The swapping and dropping,
and then photoshopping
Not to mention the post-capture cropping
So much print making for this big undertaking
And then there's the statement that's mandated
Your thoughts on your panel, clearly translated,
It's a pain in the butt for the uninitiated!
By the end of the process, your brain's pixelated
And then, on the day, the judges hold sway
They don't let favouritism get in their way
While we in the background, tremble and pray
As all of our work they closely surveyed
Panels were scrutinised and then debated
The reasons for decisions were then related
I for one was mighty elated,
When the decision was announced

I am Associated

This is Me

I grew up on a farm in rural part Co. Tyrone and developed my love of nature and the great outdoors during those wellie-wearing formative years.

Photography enables me to combine my love of art, nature, and getting my feet wet! I love being outdoors - it's my natural habitat. And I love the rain!

I do not want to simply capture an image with my camera, but rather transform what my eye sees into what my heart feels. Creating this panel was an opportunity for me to explore a subject which has fascinated me, namely wildlife which is at risk of disappearing.

I work intuitively and instinctively, layering and blending textures & colours, giving my images a painterly feel. My colour palette is understated and subdued but nuanced and considered.

The Irish Photographic Federation offer three levels of Distinction, Licentiate, Associateship & Fellowship, and these are not restricted to members of the Irish Clubs. They can provide handbooks for each level of distinction and strongly recommend that all applicants take the time to study the relevant handbook for their level carefully. <http://irishphoto.ie/distinctions/>

MASTERS OF PRINT – R K Burt Gallery

A wonderful, friendly, busy, inspiring, joyously crowded day for the official opening of the masters of print exhibition at the R K Burt Gallery in London. More than two thirds of the accepted photographers arrived, from all over the UK – a fantastic happy turnout, all delighted to collect their unique badge. Thank you all for making it such a great day!

Just a few of the award and prize winners >

Virtually all our Corporate Sponsors attended and expressed their delight with the exhibition and the opening event. They each chose their favourite pictures and presented very desirable gifts to the chosen photographers, most of whom, happily, were present on the day.

We will feature many of the successful photographers in e-news over the coming months and the next issue will have a full list of award and prize winners, together with lots of happy pictures from the opening. The catalogue is fabulous, a real photo work of art, and every entrant will be sent a copy, before Christmas if we can possibly manage it. We hope, also, to be able to distribute one to every Club, even if you didn't have an entrant. Details of touring venues will be made available as soon as we can confirm them.

The PAGB will consider in February if the event is to continue but I am very hopeful. If you didn't manage to enter this year, please don't miss the 2019 masters of print.
